

Google Docs, Forms and Video Mashup Using HTML5 for Assessment Applications

Robert Workman
Southern Connecticut State University
New Haven, Connecticut USA

Abstract

This presentation will discuss how Google Docs, Forms, and Video can be combined in an HTML5 document using Google provided embed code. Users are able to view text, images, and video, and respond to questions. The questions can be displayed either next to or below the lessons content. The form results can be used for evaluating the viewer's opinion or their understanding of the material presented.